COMMENTARY

What a chestnut tree meant to young Anne

I ran across a little news blurb the other day about a chestnut tree that is slowly dying in the city of Amsterdam in Holland.

So, what's the big deal about that?

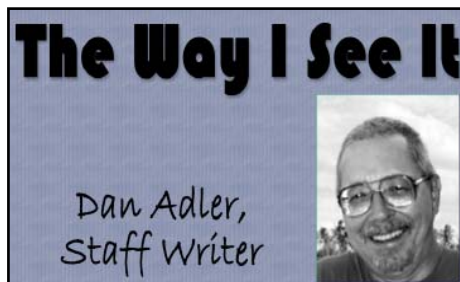

Well, you see, it's not just any chestnut tree.

Many people know her story, but for those young and not-so-young who don't, Anne Frank was a Jewish teenager in Holland during World War II. When the Nazis invaded and occupied Amsterdam, the Frank family and four other Jews hid from the Germans in secret rooms in her father's office building for more than two years. During the time she was in hiding, young Anne kept a diary in which, among other things, she described a chestnut tree that she could see from a tiny window in her hiding place. It comforted her for those two years.

Although she could only see the top of it, that chestnut tree was her connection with the outside world—the world she had known before the war—the world she would never know again.

She wrote about the tree, 'as long as this exists,

RMI declares emergency for northern atolls

U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll to provide 55,000 gallons of fresh water to alleviate severe shortage on outer islands

By Nell Drumheller
Editor

The U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll is helping to alleviate, at least temporarily, drought conditions in the Republic of the Marshall Islands.

On March 13, the RMI National Disaster Committee submitted a request to the RMI government for emergency status due to a fresh water shortage and severe drought conditions for the Northern atolls of Utrik, Ailuk, Likiep, Wotho, Lae and Namu. The RMI cabinet met and approved the emergency measure to release the disaster funding.

"The RMI government has declared a state of emergency and requested assistance through the U.S. Embassy, Majuro, to the Federal Emergency Management Agency," Lt. Col. Jeff Klein, USAKA Host Nation Office said.

"FEMA is evaluating the request at this time. USAKA is selling water to the RMI on a temporary basis until formal processes are in place," Klein continued.

"The RMI government asked if we could sell them 55,000 gallons of potable water so they can take the water to a number of the outer islands," Stan Jazwinski, KRS liquid systems manager, said. "Since our lens wells and reverse osmosis system are in good condition, we agreed that we can support their initial request with no impact to the community."

The RMI patrol boat, the Lomor, arrived at Echo Pier on March 24 for the first delivery of the initial amount requested, "We delivered 7,800 gallons for them to take to Lae Atoll," Jazwinski said. "We expect that they will be back before the end of the week for another 8,000 gallons and so on until we reach the initial amount of 55,000 gallons."

Under Title 10 of the U.S. Code and DoD regulations, the military is prohibited for engaging in humanitarian assistance activities without prior approval of and endorsement by the U.S. government's lead federal agency, in this case FEMA, according to Klein. "In cases where we are alleviating human suffering such as this, we can provide limited assistance on a reimbursable basis," Klein said.

"The dry season this year has been much dryer than normal, but should not be as severe as the 1997 or the 1982 droughts," Jazwinski said.

"If the outer islands, especially the northern atolls, continue to experience abnormally dry conditions, then we may be asked to provide additional assistance at which time we will re-evaluate our situation to determine what level of support we can provide," Jazwinski added.

To ensure that this community has water to spare, Jazwinski recommended, "The residents and visitors of Kwajalein should always conserve water. Our community is surrounded by salt water, and it is expensive to treat the 240,000 gallons of fresh water that we use on Kwajalein each day. Our lens wells and reverse osmosis system should be able to provide all of the drinking water we need until the rainy season starts in June."

He outlined steps members of this community should take to conserve water. "Everyone on Kwajalein should treat potable water as a precious resource: Report any water leak immediately to the Service Desk; never use potable water for watering plants or lawns; postpone use of children's wading pools until the rainy season and take shorter showers and be conservative in all areas."

Tall ship

The Indonesian tall ship the KRI Dewaruci motored into Kwajalein's port Wednesday and will be docked at Echo Pier through Sunday. Crew from the ship held an open house Friday and will hold another today from 4 to 6:30 p.m. People wishing to board the ship should go to the Dock Security Checkpoint. Groups will be escorted, 15-20 at a time, from DSC and the tour of the ship will be a maximum of 20 minutes. The ship is on its way to Newport, Rhode Island where it will participate in a tall ship event in late June.

Easter meal takes six months of planning

By Nell Drumheller
Editor

On Sunday as many as 700 people will file through the doors of Café Pacific and partake of the Easter brunch.

But it's been more than half a year since Kwajalein Range Services Food Service Manager Dave Nobis and his staff began planning the special-event meal.

"I need to start planning the menus approximately six months prior to the event so I can determine specific food amounts and submit purchase requests," Nobis said. "This helps to ensure specialty items arrive from stateside in a timely manner."

Easter is one of four holidays when special meals are prepared and served to the public at the dining facility. Holiday meals are also served on Mother's Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. "Entrees and desserts vary to coincide with the holiday theme," Nobis said.

It takes a large team to prepare and present that much food. "Approximately 40 employees comprise our team of both the day and evening shift," Nobis said. "Of course, numerous man hours are required in preparation of the many items offered on the menu."

If you were having some guests over for a holiday meal, you probably wouldn't offer the variety that is available at Café Pacific. Nobis said that for a typical holiday meal the staff prepares approximately 30 dozen eggs, 150 pounds of potatoes, up to 300 pounds of shrimp and as much as 400 pounds each of carved entrees such as beef and ham. Add to that some of the specialty items such as 1,600 crab-stuffed mushrooms, and you've got yourself a meal.

"I would have to say there are several customer favorites which include the peel and eat shrimp, crab legs, inhouse smoked salmon, crab-stuffed mushrooms and our carved entrees, such as herb roasted steamship round of beef, prime rib, ham and rosemary rack of lamb," he said. "Other items that compliment our entrees such as our garlic sauce and asiago cream sauce, are always welcomed by our patrons. Of course, the desserts are a big hit as well."

One of the highlights of the specialty-meal events is the dessert display. "[The dessert selection] varies depending on the holiday, but I would say an average of 12 specialty desserts," Nobis said.

The typical Sunday

brunch offers both breakfast and lunch menu items, but the Café Pacific staff normally only feeds between 150 and 175 people.

"The key to a successful and streamlined event is pre-planning, assigning specific duties to employees and teamwork," he added.

"I would have to say that it is not one particular item that lends to a pleasurable and unforgettable dining experience for our customers, but the combination of excellent food, service and special ambience that makes the event a huge success," he said.

The Café Pacific doors

open for the Sunday brunch at 11 a.m. for unaccompanied personnel; families with children may come beginning at noon. The brunch will continue until 2:30 p.m. The cost for non-meal card holders is $19.95 for adults and $10.95 children under 12. This is an all-you-can-eat buffet.

U.S. Marine Corps recruiter to visit Kwaj April 19-20

Representative will provide information on available opportunities

Sgt. M. Trent Lowry

Recruiting Station Orange County Marketing and Public Affairs director

A U.S. Marine Corps recruiting representative will be in Kwajalein April 19 and 20 to present information regarding opportunities in the Marine Corps to young men and women.

Gunnery Sgt. Elmer Pagaragan, a career recruiter with Recruiting Station Orange County, will travel to Kwajalein for the first visit made by Marine recruiters to the atoll.

President Ronald Reagan, 40th U.S. president and RTS' namesake, quoted an anonymous author's statement during a speech in 1985: "Some people spend an entire lifetime wondering if they've made a difference. The Marines don't have that problem." While the list of difference-makers in that quote could be expanded to most members of the armed forces, it still takes a desire to be the best to enlist in the U.S. Marine Corps.

USMC recruiters last paid a visit to the Republic of the Marshall Islands in 2004, when they went to Majuro. Before that, the last major presence of Marines in the Marshall Islands was during World War II, when the Navy's Pacific Fleet carried Marines and Soldiers to liberate the Marshalls from the Japanese.

The chance to spread awareness of the Marine Corps in Kwajalein is exciting to recruiters in the Pacific.

"I am definitely looking forward to my first visit to the RMI," said Pagaragan, a native of Oahu, Hawaii. "I think it would be important to give the young men and women of RMI the same opportunities given to [young people in] Guam, the Federated States of Micronesia and American Samoa."

The U.S. Marine Corps Memorial in Washington, D.C. is dedicated to all Marines.

During Pagaragan's recruiting trip to Kwajalein Atoll he will discuss some of the "tangible" benefits of joining America's tough, elite fighting force, such as educational benefits, pay and job security.

The most important benefits to young people interested in the Marines, though, are often the intangibles.

Concepts such as challenge, self-discipline, leadership and teamwork are developed during the transformation from civilian-to-recruit-to-Marine that occurs at recruit training.

The challenges that recruits face — physical and mental — are obstacles that are designed to be difficult to overcome.

Hard work goes into the 13 weeks of training at the Recruit Depots in San Diego and Parris Island, S.C., but there are few greater feelings of accomplishment than standing on the parade deck during recruit graduation, knowing that the title of Marine has been earned.

Presenting the opportunities offered by the Marines to the youth of Kwajalein is a responsibility that Pagaragan said he takes seriously.

It's a chance for him to spread knowledge about the Marine Corps — like the different occupational fields in which Marines serve — and give others the same choices he was presented with.

"Hopefully this will be the first of many trips to the RMI for the Marines," Pagaragan said.

The chance to meet with Pagaragan will be offered April 19 when he visits Kwajalein High School. He will be available for limited hours April 20, as he will spend some time on Ebeye.

For questions regarding the trip prior to April 14, please call (808) 596-0225 or (808) 423-1200.

Safe driving can keep vacations happy

By Dick Nugent

Kwajalein Range Services Environmental, Safety and Health manager

It is that time of year again when most of us take our annual leave and return to "civilization." As this is summer in the United States, it usually means road construction, something we are not used to here in Kwajalein. To assist drivers, the Alabama Department of Transportation has provided the following tips to safely drive through work zones:

1. Expect the unexpected. Normal speed limits may be reduced, traffic lanes may be changed, and people and vehicles may be working on or near the road.

2. Stay alert. Diamond-shaped orange warning signs are generally posted in advance of road construction projects. Pay attention to the signs!

3. Watch for flaggers. In addition to other warning signs, a "flagger ahead" warning sign may be posted in the work zone. When you see this, stay alert and be prepared to obey the flagger's directions. In a work zone, a flagger has the same authority as a road sign, so you can be cited for disobeying his or her directions.

4. Calm down. Work zones aren't there to personally inconvenience you. They're necessary to improve the roads for everyone.

5. Merge as soon as possible. You may see flashing arrow panels or "lane closed ahead" signs. Don't zoom right up to the lane closure, and then try to barge in. Motorists can help maintain traffic flow and posted speeds by moving to the appropriate lane at first notice of an approaching work zone.

6. Don't speed. A car traveling 60 miles per hour travels 88 feet per second. If you're going 60 miles per hour and you pass a sign that says "Road Work 1,500 feet," you'll be in that work zone in 17 seconds.

7. Don't tailgate. The most common crash in a highway work zone is the rear-end collision, so remember to leave two seconds of braking distance between you and the car in front of you. The amount of space needed for two seconds of stopping time will increase the faster you're driving.

8. Keep a safe distance between your vehicle and traffic barriers, trucks, construction equipment and workers. Just like you, highway workers want to return home safely.

9. Observe posted signs. Some work zones are mobile. For example, line painting, road patching or mowing. They move down the road as the work is completed. Just because you don't see the workers immediately after you see the warning sign doesn't mean they're not there. Observe the signs until you see the one that says you've left the work zone.

10. Be patient. Expect delays, plan for them and leave early to reach your destination on time. Highway agencies use many different ways to inform motorists about the location and duration of major work zones. Often a detour may help you avoid the work zone altogether.

To find out about road construction in the areas you will visit, please contact that respective state's Department of Transportation.

this sunshine and this cloudless sky and as long as I can enjoy it, how can I be sad?'

But her family was discovered and captured in 1944, and she and her sister, Margot, were sent to Auschwitz first and then to Bergen-Belsen, a forced labor camp where an estimated 50,000 people died of starvation and disease.

After seven months in the camp, Anne and Margot died from a typhus epidemic. Only a few weeks after their deaths, British troops liberated Bergen-Belsen.

To halt the spread of typhus, the British burned the camp to the ground and put thousands of unburied bodies in mass graves. Anne and Margot are in one of those graves.

Today, there is a memorial to all who died there and two symbolic graves with headstones for Anne and Margot.

When the German government learned that Anne's beloved tree was dying, it planted chestnut trees on the ground where the Bergen-Belsen camp had stood.

The building where Anne and her family hid is now a museum in Amsterdam and millions of people from all over the world have visited it.

Anne's diary was found by her father (who was the only survivor in the family) after the war and it has been translated into 65 languages and millions of copies have been sold. Movies and plays have been based on it.

Anne was just another teenage girl with the hopes, dreams of love and romance, and doubts of any teenager. Living in fear and privation for two years didn't stop her from keeping hope and thinking that life was good and worth living.

But, the 150-year-old tree that meant so much to her is dying. The city of Amsterdam has spent more than $200,000 trying to save it, but it can't be done. The tree will have to be taken down.

Grafts have been taken from the tree, and according to the news I saw, saplings from the grafts are being grown in a nursery.

The plan is when the tree is removed, the new saplings will be planted in its place.

Some people might say that Anne's dying tree is just one more symbol of the Holocaust that is fading and being forgotten. There are not many survivors left alive to tell of their experiences and keep the memory of that horror in the world's consciousness.

I urge teenagers and children to read Anne's diary. You will find that she was just like you. I encourage parents and teachers to urge children and teens to read it.

Yes, Anne's tree is dying, but as long as her story is told and as long as there is a child somewhere in the world reading her diary, Anne and her chestnut tree will always live.

Déjà vu Adrenaline-loving director Tony Scott teams with iconic action producer Jerry Bruckheimer for this high-flying sci-fi action thriller concerning a New Orleans-based maverick ATF agent named Doug Carlin (Denzel Washington) who is brought in on a top-secret government program to catch the terrorist (Jim Caviezel) responsible for a ferry bombing that kills hundreds. Able to do what most law enforcement officers only dream of, Carlin is now able to look back in time at the perpetrator's movements, and at the life of the innocent woman whose death would set the events into motion. Carlin's instincts tell him that something is amiss, however, and while the government agent who tapped him for the job (Val Kilmer) and the team of ultra-cool scientists who run the project (Adam Goldberg, Erika Alexander) tell him one story about the quantum physics behind this marvel of technology, the hotshot agent suspects that there is a greater power at their fingertips.

Let's Go to Prison Bob Odenkirk's jail comedy Let's Go to Prison, stars Will Arnett as Nelson Biederman IV, the son of a judge who ends up being sentenced to serve time in Rossmore State Penitentiary. During one of his rare stints out of incarceration, career criminal John Lyshitski (Dax Shepard) learns of the conviction. John holds a grudge against Nelson's father and decides to get his revenge by going back to jail and making Nelson's stay there as horrible as possible.

Blood Diamond A South African mercenary and a Mende fisherman find their fates forever intertwined as they embark on a quest to obtain a rare and highly coveted pink diamond in director Edward Zwick's frantic adventure drama. Ripped from his family farm and forced to toil away in the sweltering South African diamond fields, Solomon Vandy (Djimon Hounsou) discovered an extraordinary rough stone of immeasurable value. Danny Archer (Leonardo DiCaprio) is a hired gun who specializes in the sale of so-called "blood diamonds" that are used to finance rebellions and terrorist organizations, and is currently serving time for smuggling. As a bloody civil war rages in Sierra Leone and Archer learns that Vandy has safely hidden the diamond in a place where no one would ever suspect.

Army Volunteer Week 2007

Each year since 1974, the U.S. Army has celebrated National Volunteer Week. This year's theme is 'Inspire by Example.'

Our Kwajalein volunteers play a critical role not only in our community, but also in the communities of our neighboring islands. U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll will be accepting nominations of Soldiers, Department of the Army civilians, contractors and family members. Every volunteer in the Kwajalein community is eligible. Volunteer work may cover any area such as school events, sports, church, clubs, etc. Each nomination must include the length of service, organizations they volunteer with and what they accomplish with their volunteer work. Five outstanding volunteers will be selected and honored at a luncheon April 25, at the Yokwe Yuk Club.

Please submit nominations to Bennie Kirk, 54417, or e-mail bennie.kirk@smdck.smdc.army.mil no later than April 18.

U.S. Army Space, Missile Defense Command seeks logo

SMDC release

The U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. SMDC is soliciting submissions for a 50th logo which may be incorporated into briefing slides and exhibits.

The contest is open to all current and retired USASMDC/ARSTRAT employees military and civilian, dependents and other interested parties. Three logos will be selected from the submissions and designated first, second and third place.

REQUIREMENTS: The logo should be a full-color design that is equally attractive if printed in black and white or grayscale. Printing requirements dictate that original artwork should measure a minimum of 8-by-10-inches. An electronic logo design must be a minimum of 8-by-10 inches with a 300 dot-per-inch (dpi) quality. Digital submissions, saved on a CD, must be in a JPEG (filename.jpg) format with a minimum quality setting of medium. Submissions should include, on a separate page, the designer's full name, address, telephone number, e-mail address and as applicable, military rank, job title and unit listed on a separate sheet.

DEADLINES: Submissions must be received by close of business April 30. All submissions will be presented anonymously to the USASMDC Board of Directors. The Board of Directors will select the winning entries. They will also determine if the first place design will be used as the permanent 50th anniversary logo. The decision of the judges will be final. Send submissions to:

Sharon Watkins Lang, (256) 955-1133/ DSN 645 or E-mail: Sharon.Watkins.Lang@us.army.mil or Mail: USASMDC, ATTN: SMDC-HO/LANG, P.O. Box 1500, Huntsville, AL 35807-3801.

FEDEX: USASMDC, Von Braun Complex, ATTN: SMDC-HO/LANG, BLDG 5220 RM 3F116, Redstone Arsenal AL 35898.

GENERAL CONDITIONS:

Each submission must be the original work of the submitting contestant and must not violate any copyright, trademark, publicity, or privacy right of any third party, and must not be obscene or otherwise contrary to law.

Contestants agree to release, indemnify, and hold harmless the Government and its employees and agents from and against any damages and expenses arising in connection with any suit or allegation that their submissions violate the rights of any third party.

Contestants agree that the Government acquires full ownership in all submissions by assigning all copyright, trademark, and any other intellectual property rights in their submissions to the Government, as represented by the Secretary of the Army. Submissions will not be returned.

Contest winners will be notified by May 18.

Winning logos will appear in an upcoming edition of The Eagle and may appear in other publications. Winning contestants agree to the use of their names, likenesses, and biographical information, if any, for purposes of advertising and promotion by the Government without further consent, compensation, or approval.

By entering the contest, contestants agree to all of the above conditions. Contestants must be 19 years of age or older and have full right to make this agreement.
